ABOUT US

DVHM

FOODS AND SPICES

was established in 2022 with a clear mission : to create a trusted, reliable, and professional partner for sourcing and processing Indian spices. Based in Unjha, Gujarat the largest hub for cumin, fennel, coriander, and sesame in Asia—DVHM stands at the very heart of India's spice trade, serving clients who demand not just quality, but also consistency and dependability.

Our strength lies in our integrated supply chain model, which combines direct farmer connect with modern processing infrastructure. Through our heritage firm, Patel Mukeshkumar Manilal, we have been active in the Unjha APMC (Agricultural Produce Market Committee) for over 50 years. Farmers from Gujarat, Rajasthan, MadhyaPradesh and other regions bring their harvests to auction at Unjha, and over decades we have built relationships that give us access to the best raw materials at the source.

This deep sourcing base is complemented by DVHM's modern facility, where raw spices and oilseeds undergo cleaning, grading, and sorting with advanced technology. By combining farmer networks with processing expertise, DVHM ensures that products are not only authentic and traceable, but also meet the reliability and uniform standards that international buyers expect.

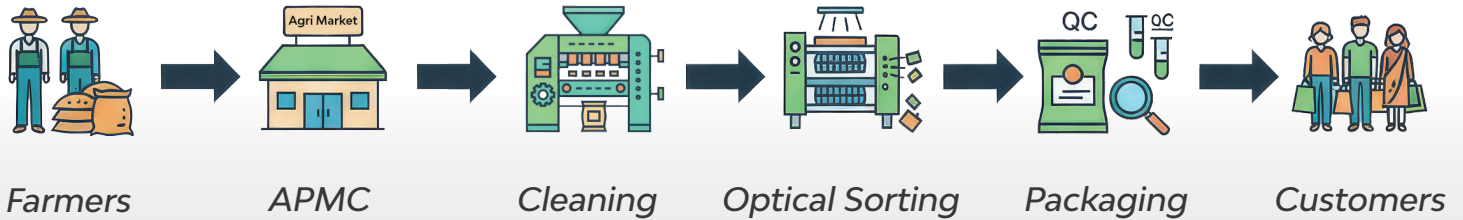

In many traditional trading environments, buyers often face challenges variation in quality, lack of consistency in supply, or limited assurance on handling practices. At DVHM, we recognize these concerns and have built our model specifically to address them. Every batch we handle follows a clear chain from farmer to market to processing allowing us to provide the stability, predictability, and transparency that global businesses value.

Unjha contributes more than 70% of India's cumin exports and remains one of the most important spice markets in the world. Being located here gives DVHM a strategic edge: proximity to the source, speed in procurement, and the ability to fulfill diverse requirements quickly and reliably.

For us, business is not just about moving commodities. It is about building long-term partnerships based on trust, continuity, and mutual growth. When you work with DVHM, you gain more than a supplier—you gain a partner who understands the complexities of the spice trade, respects its traditions, and applies modern practices to make it more dependable for the future.

This is our core promise at DVHM Foods & Spices : "Authenticity where it begins, Excellence in how it's refined, and Reliability in how it reaches you."
